On the go...

ONLY AT WACHUSETT

We are constantly on the go! The object is to get to wherever you are going on time, whether it be classes, work, detention, home from a party, or another social event, or even from the bus-stop. Unfortunately, we are always on the move and we often do not know where we are headed and we wander aimlessly But, that's part of being a teenager and part of the growing process. So, once in a while we need to withdraw from the rat race, take it easy and enjoy our life while we still have the will power to keep up with the crazy paces we set! P.S. Use this excuse the next time your late coming from the cafeteria on the five minutes between double chem!!

But Still

THROUGH thick on thin

Friends are an important aspect of everyone's lives. They are there whether an Olympic gold medal is won or when a shoulder is needed to lean on, carrying each other through those highs and lows of life. They support each other in whatever avenue the other chooses to pursue; they laugh, cry, do outrageous things, and spend practically every waking moment together!!! Friends are like little kids sharing secrets-hoarding, protecting, and valuing each other's thoughts and feelings. Friendship is that unique relationship or bond between people. It is often difficult to penetrate that established bond because of the uncanny match; it is as if they are meant to be. Although everyone searches for different traits in a friend, trust, understanding, a good listener, fun to be with, caring seem to be the most important criteria. Friends are there with that pat on the back, that nudge on the shoulder, that smile, that glance directed your way or that high five to whose hidden meaning only they hold the key . . . they understand thru thick and thin.

A Step Ahead

We seem to find our way

With the large number of students attending Wachusett, it is very easy to get lost in the mass confusion. For entering Freshmen, it proves an even greater feat. Wachusett can be overwhelming, ominous, and each newcomer greets Wachusett with skepticism. Where and if they are going to fit in seems to be the major concern. This one adjustment and transition most Wachusett students handle with much ease and expertise. Drawing from five towns there are many facets of Wachusett. Therefore, there is almost a group for everyone, it is just that it takes a little time for one to become aquainted with Wachusett and to nestle into one group. It is not unusual to be tossed about as if one is a part of a pinball machine, or trying out for a particular sport, participating in clubs or activities, aimlessly searching for classes or looking for that right group or nitch. Wachusett students seem to overcome and overlook these inconveniences, and trudge on thru thick and thin always seeming to find their way.

No, these are the Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous with Robin Leech? Try again. These are the lifestyles of the wild, funny, average, and sometimes unusual lifestyles of the Young and the Hormonely Spastic!

Some of us exist as partiers or jocks and some of us as couch potatoes or bookworms. However dull compared to those of the Rich and Famous, we believe that lifestyles are for people over 25 and that we are just coping with what we have. until it is our turn to make our dreams come true!

Weekends are for...

The bell rings and the halls are filled with murmuring and anxious voices planning the next two long-awaited days to come. "Well the hockey game is tonight and we were planning on going skiing on Saturday," echoes one ambitious student. Others are chatting with their boyfriends or girlfriends deciding which movie or which restaurant to dine at. Many others, however, do not plan how they would like to pass away the weekend, since their jobs take first fiddle. These are the students that revolve their activities about their work schedule, unfortunately for them, they have to bring home their own bacon! They take consolation in the fact that they will meet their friends at the local hangout or beside a soft pillow relaxing after a rigorous day at work. Still others manipulate about their parents' budgeted time. It takes a lot of effort in preparing the house when one's parents go away for the weekend. They have to get the exact times they are coming and going so that the host can make certain that they coincide with the times his/her guests are coming and going!!!! These are just a few of the many things that students find to make their time off worthwhile. All things assured, no matter what they do, they appreciate the time off from the stressful and mundane school days and can't wait until next weekend when they can do it all over again!!

Whether it be ripped jeans, bell-bottoms, chains, oversized sweaters, or tight button down collars, there is plenty of opportunity for students to make their fashion statements, and have others "try it on for size". But although the fashion is different, one thing that all seniors have in common is that they need as much beauty sleep as another, study, work, and of course, that old American stand-by . . . eating, an essential part of a senior's day.

A day in the life of a Senior

The alarm clock sounds. It's 6:30-time to get up for the long school day ahead. No, you say to yourself as your tired, limp hand flops lazily down upn the snooze button. Another ten minutes, then I'll get up. Just let me sleep a little longer.

Buzz! Your eyes pop open in agony, and you jerk your head toward the clock to see that it is now 6:40. You realize that with her annoyingly chirpy morning voice, saying "Time to get up, Sleeping Beauty!" (or some variation) This note of motivation forces you to drag yourself slowly out of bed, one heavy leg at a time, and somehow succeed in standing. Scuffling down the hall slouched over, you make your way into the bathroom to start the shower. Here, the steamy, almost scalding water seems to make you yearn for sleep even more, as you sway back and forth, eyes closed, under the pounding beams of water. As you finish your morning rituals and leave for your ride to school, you grab a blueberry muffin or gobble down a couple of heaping spoonfuls of Fruit Loops just to quiet the urgings of your mother, and exit the house, book bag and lunch in hand, still dragging your feet as you lethargically make your way down the driveway.

It's first period. The slouched, limp bodies sit motionless in theirseats, their faces expressionless as they "listen" to the morning announcements. The rest of the period is spent in much the same way, and as the bell sounds, they emerge from their desks and stroll casually out into the halls, heading aimlessly to their next class.

Second, third, and fourth periods are waning periods-it has yet to be pinpointed at which period that consciousness begins to occur. After all, who's going to wake up and revive rather quickly with a screaming Algebra teacher, a gym class outside in 40° weather, and a surprise test in English class-nice way to begin the day! Thank God someone invented lunch!!!

Below right: "It's hard to keep a double identity," says Santa Jill.

Left: Are we testy this morning? Dan, Sherri, Colin- engaging in a private convo.
Middle: The pause that refreshes: Scott slurps on a juicy.
Bottom: Thank God for bells: Glenn's animal instinct surface with another trying day with Beth, the cause.

Chaos. Entering the caf, you peer around for your longawaited lunch mates and your favorite seat. Finding it occupied, you decide to venture into the lunchlines, which extend to the opposite side of the room. As you would rather wait for the lines to go down and inhale your lunch with five minutes left in the period, you then decide to search out a seat and socialize. As your stomach growls and you refrain from attacking another's lunch tray, you finish off those last bits and pieces of homework that you didn't complete at home. Sixth period is right around the corner.

By this time, students are awaiting seventh period to count down the minutes until dismissal. Talking is non-stoppable, socialization taking over the classroom discussion. Nothing ever seems to get accomplished. But, who's complaining!! There's a quiz tomorrow; that doesn't seem possible with the amount of material covered, or did you miss something? Time will tell.

At last. Seventh period. The countdown begins. This has to be the longest class of the day, and also the loudest. Those slouching, motionless and dreamy zombies in first period by now have turned into a babbling and squirmy gaggle of students anxiously awaiting the final bell of the day. Suddenly, everyone jumps out of their seats, and as the first person approaches the door, the bell sounds, and the halls are instantly filled with chatter as wild, joyful students scramble briskly to their lockers for the necessary books they need to do their homework. The halls are soon left empty and [illegible]oiseless as students make their way to their buses [illegible] forward to doing more sch[illegible]

How unsuspecting . . . an unsolved mystery in quiet Holden suburbia where everything is as it seems. But those of us with invisible antennae that see and hear all know better.

The evidence was as plain as day- a crumpled up sandwich bag, inside the crust of pumpernickel bread with the traces of mayo on the clear plastic baggie. At the end of the table lay a crushed chocolate milk carton, tell-tale drippings strewed about. On the floor is a lonely chocolate chip, the remains of a cookie, the culprit is leaving a blazing trail. It's only a matter of time before he/she is apprehended. All we have to do is locate a person with mayo on the corners of their mouth, chocolate milk on their shirt, and the scent of chocolate chip cooke on their breath. All vulnerable and personalized brown bags of goodies from home will be safe if only we can catch the mysterious lunchy munchy!

Any one of these suspicious looking characters could be the one we are looking for. All those involved will be interrogated until this mystery at WRHS has been put to rest.

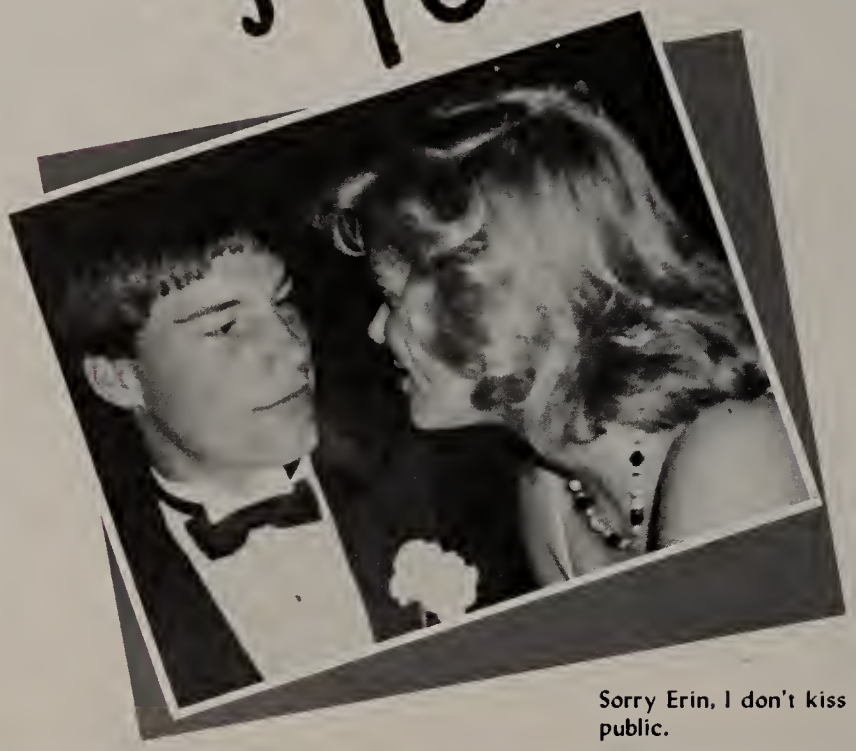
Kick up your heels!

Jr. Prom May 9, 1987



Sorry Erin, I don't kiss in public.

The date was May ninth, 1987. The place- the Worcester Marriott. This was the night numerous couples were waiting for. This was the evening of the Class of 1988's junior prom, with the theme, "Lean on Me". The elegantly decorated burgundy and siver ballroom was ready. As 7:00 rolled around, so did the stretch limos, Rolles Royces', and other classy automobiles, one of which was a vintage red, convertible Mustang driven by Mike Latino.

After a late dinner, the prom band Motion got the ball rolling with their up-beat dance music. Soon, the small dance floor was packed with laughing, hyper juniors. Some chose to sit and be their audience. Being a beautiful, clear, and warm night, many congregated outside on the patio by the pool. The entertainment out there were two daring girls who were so hot decided, "What the heck," and took a quick dip into the refreshing pool with their gowns on.

Following a night of fun, laughs, and dancing, the majority left for their post-prom activities at around midnight. Others, who just could not seem to stop their dancing feet, held on for a while longer, leaving this once sparkling, but memorable hotel in dissarray.

WACHUSETT RELATIONSHIPS

How we all dread getting up so early for school; teachers, students, administration, bus drivers, and custodians. We'll do almost anything to get out of it; play sick, play hockey, pray for a snowstorm or other natural disaster, but when all those plans fail and 1st period has started, we realize that it's not all that bad. School is our microsociety in this big world of full-time jobs, famine, nuclear weapons, and war. We have our leaders (administration), police (hall and cafeteria monitors), and the general mass of bodies (the students). In each different year, class, and situation we manage to meet new people, get closer to one another, and reach out. We are big "family", but remember we are also individuals.

A kaleidoscope of grays, blues, greens, purples, khakis, and other variations are common sights as one travels through the corridor at Wachusett. Nikes, Converse, boots, and shoes or a size 8-13 foot are also familiarities. But things are not as straightforward for Wachusett also covers the inbetweens . . . size 4 or 9½ or 2AA, high heels, sandals, and moccassins. Easily discovered, one size does not fit all, at Wachusett.

The students at Wachusett have come from different backgrounds and the five towns surrounding Wachusett: Rutland, Paxton, Princeton, Sterling, and Holden. They have come together to meet in one place. Each, from their own path, have come to be a part, to join the Wachusett family. Each with their own particular goals, ideas, hopes, and ambitions, but, each contributing to the spirit and life of Wachusett. The uniqueness at Wachusett is enhanced by the individuality of every student. Each one is different and each has something important to add to Wachusett. The diversity of its students add it its depth. However, there is no typical Wachusett student since each individual is a piece of the pie.

Wachusett is a pie made up of five pieces and from each piece there are special ingredients that are needed to give it that homemade taste . . . that extra touch. Every spice and ingredient is a vital part of the pie just as every Wachusett student is a vital part of the W.R.H.S. family. They are important ingredients of the recipe. Each piece is composed of different ingredients but when all the ingredients are mixed and plopped together and blended in-things are no longer just black and white. The ingredients and students are forced to meet. Through such combinations friendships form, bonds are made, and their lives become a part of Wachusett itself. The students are the sole foundation of the family, the vital pieces, and the essential ingredients since that pie is not complete and whole without the spices or students.

Jocks, brains, nerds, skaters, punkers, and the deadheads are all labels placed in the many groups at Wachusett because it takes all walks of life . . .

Let your mouth water as you see the ingredients which make up the recipe for Wachusett.

SENIOR OFFICERS

At Wachusett there are vast opportunities to become involved in student government. The Student Council provides a voice for student concerns and is responsible for much that goes on here. Becoming a class officer is an ideal way for showing leadership as well are positions on the S.A.C., R.S.A.C. and the A.A.B.

Being a leader is something that takes responsibility, initiative and a bit of courage. Choosing to become a class officer is definitely a way to display leadership qualities. Class officers plan dances, fundraisers, special programs etc. Officers are responsible for maintaining that special spirit that makes each class that comes in and out of W.R.H.S. unique. Look back at the time you have spent at Wachusett and smile. Thank your class officers and especially your class advisors, for they have helped to make your class GREAT!

"This is not a democracy!"
"Pucker those lips!"
"I promise you we won't do as many performances this year!"
"Where's my bowtie!"
"Don't be wimps! No guts, no glory!"
"More tenor, less bass, and twice as much alto!"
"No! No! Never stop, even if there's a herd of pink elephants coming through!"

The Music Department is constantly changing . . . and growing. Over 200 people are involved in Wind Ensemble, Wachusett Singers, Jazz Band, Concert Chorus, and Concert Band, as well as private lessons. Students in each of the ensembles also receive a well-rounded education in the field of music. The department gives four full concerts every year, as well as dozens of smaller performances at the El Morocco and Disneyworld in Florida. This year also witnessed the introduction of a Junior High Jazz Chorus and a Junior High Jazz Band here at the school. The Music Department does more than just performing, too. Other courses include Music Fundamentals, Advanced Musicianship, History of Pop and Jazz, and Electronic Music. No matter where one's interests lie, the Music Department has something to offer everyone.

Once Twins, Now Opposites

-a tribute to Lynn Ellen Gates-Reed

Once we were twins,
Mirror images. Best friends.
We shared everything-Everything in common
The same hairstyle, "sorta-kinda-but-not really"
that pink sweater, MacDonald's food
I want to be a cop
I want to be a writer
Meeting new beaux
Breaking hearts and getting our hearts broken
We created so many memories
What little trouble makers!
Remember Mobil bathroom? How 'bout N.Y. City?
Those hockey games? The hurricane?
Those were the days-Crazy Days

Now we seem to be opposites,
Not quite strangers, but so different.
No more are the friday night escapades
What's new?
Curtains for the bathroom, coffee table in the den shelfliner in the pantry, ultrasound.
I got an eighty-five on an analysis test,
got accepted to college.
You're having a baby-ABABY!!
Me, I'm finding a date for the prom.

Sometime in the future
I may have a good job, a condo in the city
You'll have a loving family.
We will both have success in our callings
We both have promising futures.
Very different, but happy and successful nonetheless

Someday we will be mentors for one another
You'll teach me the joys, shortcuts and difficulties of parenthood.
I'll help you break into the career world.
Our friendship has a direction,
A future-not to worry, I still love you.

Welcome to the world Baby Reed.

Whether it be soccer, hockey, baseball, tennis, underwater basketweaving, or tricycle racing, the athletes rise to the occasion. With Wachusett being a dominant force in sports competition, we notice real dedication and perseverance in our sports program. The coaches as well as the athletes, donate their time and expertise (personal best) to bring forth exciting and entertaining action. The player's, coaches, cheerleaders, and the entire student body contribute to the winning spirit of W.R.H.S. Though the Varsity Football team got of to a great start by defeating St. Peter-Marien by completly shutting them out, their winning streak slowly began to dwindle. The team may have not won the game, but they showed us some good playing. Under the guidance of captains Steve Holland, Chris Carey, and Jamie Ellis the team worked together to give the opponents some tough competition. Seniors leaving, other than the three captains, are: R. Annunziata, K. Babineau, P. Bessette, C. Carey, S. Conner, S. Crawford, J. Ellis, B. Foreacre, S. Holland, B. Johnson, J. Lanpher, K. CUTEST AND MOST VALUABLE . . . WHAT?

Contributing his skills and quick thinking to the team's outstanding football season, Cpt. Jamie Ellis was rightly one of this year's MVP's. Keeping in star company with Jamie was junior Kyron Hobdy. Kyron was a key player that the team could always rely on both on and off the field. If cut from the NFL they can always fall back on their looks! Watch for these two most valuable in GQ.

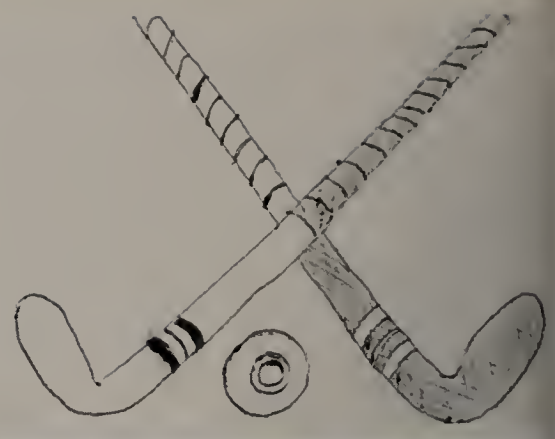
Climbing the ladder of success



Once again as their season approached, the Girl's Field Hockey team rose to the occasion. Under the direction of Coach Aldrich, these "talents" gave Mrs. Aldrich her one-hundredth win. Their combination of skill, teamwork, and determination led to their domination over opposing teams. With another "best" season under their belts, the two senior captains, Sarah Galvin and Mandy Fair, as well as the rest of the squad gave Wachusett yet another opportunity to gloat. Though the team lost their chance at the championship, they displayed spectacular playing abilitites and overwhelming spirit throughout. They completed their season leaving Wachusett with vivd and exciting memoried . . . W.T.B.!!!!!

Track: A Melodrama

Track: this is where the spike hits the rubberized tar surface. In the most grueling of sports, the track and field athlete is pushed to the outer edges of his endurance and strength.

The Wachusett indoor and outdoor teams have been the perennial high scorers in district competition in the past few years. In 1987, the winter and spring squads achieved no less than district championship status with depth provided by the class of '88 members.

Although the '88 winter team has had a problem gaining momentum (they have faced 3 defeats at this time), there is cause for optimism going into the spring season. Excellent individual times and distances have been recorded at the Harvard Invitational. New talent has been found that will provide dangerous competition later on.

Everyone is in a frenzy about the 1988 Outdoor Track team. This is the last time for the senior class to shine and for the fans, it is the most engaging competition they will see before the Seoul Olympic games. Wachusett will have to wait before a collection of such talent gathers on Fredrick G. Warren field.

The prominent senior characters of this action adventure novel are Jamie Simpson in the middle distances, David Elwell in the jumps, Rob Bunting in the high jump, Chris Carey in the shot putt, and Lincoln Powerhouse, Oh, I mean Waterhouse, in just about everything.

1987-88 was the Girls' Cross-Country teams most successful season. In a memorable performance, the team captured their first District All-Class Championship since the team was founded thirteen years ago. They went on to finish a strong seventh in the State All-Class Meet. In addition, the team had won the Nashoba Invitational and the Central Mass. Conference Championship for the third straight year. Six of the ten CMC All-Stars were from Wachusett: Dorothea Carraway, Brenda Fales, Sarah Sadowski, Kerry Pyle, Robin Fales, and Cheryl Odoardi. Odoardi was also named a District All-Star and was selected as co-MVP with Senior Captain Det Carraway, who provided the leadership for this outstanding District Championship team.

ALL POLISHED UP!!

The varsity girls soccer team had an outstanding season (17-3), demonstrating their ability and sportsmanship with every game. Advancing to the District E Semi-finals, the season came to a close with an upset by Nashoba (1-0), and it was a great game to end a great season. The team has set a strong tone for years to come, and they should be proud of their efforts and achievements. Mr. Larson summed up the season with, "They had a great season and really came together as a team. Advancing to the District E Semi-finals, ending Marlboro's 61 game winning streak, highlighted a terrific season." Need we say more!

Puttin' their best foot foward

The Boys Varsity soccer team had another spectacular season. Throughout the season, the team kept the winning spirit alive.

By defeating almost every team that crossed their path, the team became a well-oiled machine. After working so hard during the regular season, the sweat and hard work paid off giving the boys the opportunity to play Algonquin at Kelleher Field for the semi-finals. After a well-played game, Wachusett was able to pull it ahead and win. The next move was to play Marlboro for the finals. It was one of the sporting events that is sure to go down in Wachusett history. The game went into several sudden deaths before finally coming down to the wire-each team taking shots at the goal. In a nail-biting finale, Marlboro was able to take the lead with one goal that ended up being the deciding factor. The team put 110% of themselves into the game for themselves and the school. With this exceptional team, Coach Gardula's last season ended on a victorious note.

Although it wasn't a victory over Marlboro, it was a personal victory-satisfaction, pride, and honor through tremendous sportsmanship. Coach Gardula and the team will always be our State Champions!

Missing: J. Foley, D. Deptula.

The 1987-88 basketball season was filled with doubt from the begining. The Mountianeer's were not expected to obtain a 500 season. To the surprise of many, the Mountianeers posted a 17-3 regular season record, thus, qualifying them for District's and for the third year in a row capturing the Telegram&Gazette #1 rating. Dispite a heart breaking District Semifinal loss to Fitchburg, the Mountianeers accomplished far above everyones expectations.

Despite the lack of recognition given the Seniors were an intricate part of the Mountianeer success. The graduating Seniors will be attending the follwing schools: Paul Rauker on a full basketball scholarship to Assumption, Dave Cornacchioli will attend Westfield State, Bob Dunham and Tim Walch are undecided, Steve Holland will attend A.T.C., continuing in football, and Karl Soderland continuing his education at either W.N.E.C. or Anna Maria.

Jumpin' High for Wachusett

This year's Girl's Varsity Basketball team had a good season. Led by captains Jen Lynch, senior, Bonnie MacAlister, senior and Sheila Donoghue, senior the team only lost one game in their regular season of 21 games. After winning 20 games they went on to capture the CMC title. They went to the District semi-finals but were defeated by Marlboro. Other seniors that had a good season were Dorothea Carraway, Jen Decelles, Debbi Hidenfelter and Bethe Mason.

M.V.P.

Lincoln Waterhouse, senior captian, was named this year's M.V.P. for being the top point scorer of this year's team. He is also said to be a "very intense competitor". What an athlete! Good luck in the future . . .

As the starting gun sounded and the sound of pounding feet against the floor echoed through South High's Indoor Track, the season began. Wachusett, coming off a tremendous previous year, where they captured both the Winter and Spring Track District Titles, held their heads high. Having lost a great number of seniors, we did not expect to have the greatest season, but the result was a pleasant surprize. We came out of the season with only three losses in dual meets, two of which were lost in the relay. A second place in the league meet was by far the high point of the season. Although a District Title was was not captured, we left for the season with a strong sense of satisfaction from our accomplishments. Maybe the most important thing was that we had a lot of fun!

Chris Carey takes special acclaim for his shotputting excellence which took him all the way to the New England Tournaments. The graduating seniors are Robert Bunting, Chris Carey, Dave Elwell, Arvid Hill, Jamie Simpson, &Lincoln Waterhouse.

M.V.P.

The M.V.P. of this year's Girls Track team was junior co-captain, Amy Pasternak.

Not only was Amy the top scorer on this years team but she also placed in the high jump in this years State Class Meet. We're looking forward to seeing her next year!

Another sucessful season of inhaling dust and smoke ended with an 8 and 1 dual meet record for the Girls Winter Track team. Led by captains Shelby Mackie, senior, and Amy Pasternak, junior, the young and inexperienced team held its own at the Districts, placing a close second to arch rival Shrewsbury. None of our sucess could have been accomplished without the fine coaching from Steve Prouty, Michael Beamer, Frank Poulin and Brian Wallace.

Special thanks to Arvid- our number one fan!

GIRLS TUMBLING TOWARDS VICTORY!

GYMNASTICS

Though the Girl's Gymnastic team didn't have a spectacular season, we saw some real talented moves in such events as the balance beam, horse, floor and the uneven bars. The team was lead by captains Michelle Pineo, senior, Linda Sioui, senior, and Emily Sorblom, senior. The girls ended their season with a 4-5 record. The coach of this years team was Debbie Long. There are no other seniors leaving this year other than the three captains.

M.V.P.

This year's M.V.P. for Girl's Gymnastics was junior, Lisa Lashbrook. Though the season wasn't the best for the team Lisa had outstanding performances throughout the season. With Lisa only being a junior, we are really looking forward to seeing her next year.

PLAYING ON THE EDGE!!

The Wachusett Varsity Hockey team had an overall record of 11-9-2, including a dramatic 3-2 victory over St. Peter Marian in the first round of District play. The team was lead by senior tri-captains Craig Maddalena, Peter Gardula, and Jeff Clark. Rob Howland was outstanding all year and was rewarded by being names a Telegram & Gazette All-Star. Other senior players who strengthened the team were Peter Bobkowski, Randy Curtis, Pat Gaffney, Chris Nelson, Chris Strang, Chris Tivnan, and David Tivnan.

It was a roller-coaster ride for the Mountaineers all year. However, one thing was consistent all year for the Mountaineers, the support of the fans. The game of the year was without question the hard fought battle against St. Peter Marian. Andy Doe scored first and after a tying goal by St. Peter Marian, Peter Gardula scored on a great move and put the team ahead 2-1. St. Peter Marian tied it again at 2-2, but with 1:47 left, Craig Maddalena got the game winner. Rob Howland was unbeatable between the pipes as usual.

M.V.P.

This year's M.V.P.'s for Varsity Ice Hockey were senior goalie, Rob Howland and senior tri-captain Craig Maddalena. Both players have had four outstanding years in Wachusett hockey. Rob had 2.4 goals gainst average during this time and Craig scored 20 goals and 30 assists this year and has accumulated 115 points for his four years. They are key players who will be sorely missed.

SPORT SCENES

With the timing of spring sports and the yearbook deadline, spring sports always seems to be cut short. This year we've done our best to give spring sports equal coverage. Have we succeeded? You decide . . .

As the warm weather comes so does spring sports. From what has been seen in the early season play, the daily practices have been paying off. Each team looks strong and ready to go all the way to the championships.

We wish all the sports teams the best of luck!

Gym class; what good is it and why do we even have it? Some people might think that gym is all fun and games and no big deal, in reality gym class is an essential part of a student's education as well as his/her health. Let's face it; in a way, physical education is the backbone behind a student's strength and well being. Without it, we might just be all plump and physically unfit hunks of lard that have no energy whatsoever. Students have enough classes in a day where they sit all period in those hard slabs of wood they call desks. They need to get active and get their bodies in motion to break the monotonous perching they do 95% of the time they spend at school. Everyone could use a little exercise two or three times a week to keep them going, and gym class does just that. From individual sports to aerobics, physical education at Wachusett offers the right class for everyone to be satisfied. Among the other classes are team games, conditioning, and creative dance. There's a gym class for everyone at Wachusett, and choosing the right one could make the strain that much easier to cope with in a day in the life of a busy Wachusett student.

HEAD OF THE CLASS

TEACHER TAKE A BOW

The stereotypical image of a teacher in the past was one of a stern taskmaster at the head of the class with yardstick in hand. He's the dragon who assigned three papers per term and believed that four hours of homework for one class a night was healthy for you. Fortunately, this image had gone the way of the horse and buggy. Teachers have more important things on their minds than making the lives of their students as miserable as possible. Teachers have become human figures to students today, and it is important to point out that teaching is just one aspect to a teacher's life. Teachers are people who sacrifice a great deal to do something they love.

Teachers commonly donate their own time to help students in and out of the classroom. They are willing to spend a free period or stay after school to help a student who is having a problem in their class. Many even regularly hold help classes to review and assist students who feel they need extra help. Many teachers are actively involved with the many clubs here at Wachusett. They also act as class advisors to help plan activities like Homecoming and the proms.

Teachers do have a life outside of Wachusett. They have their own families, friends, and interests that take up a large portion of their time. Teachers have many sides to them, teaching being only one of them.

Students ask a lot of teachers. They don't usually show their appreciation for the hard work and long hours that teachers put in. This section plans to remedy that.

MANDATORY SMOKE OUT?

There is a bill in the state house which, if turned into a law, would ban all smoking in public schools. This proposed law would affect both students and faculty. Thus, smoking would not even be allowed in the "smoking" area or in the teacher's room.

The right to smoke is a volatile issue. There is the delicate question of personal rights on both sides. Also, if the right to smoke is denied, it could be interpreted as the state forcing a moral value upon others.

Realistically, smoking will not stop simply because a change in policy is made. Before smoking was permitted in the "smoking" area at Wachusett, students who smoked did so in the school's bathrooms. The proposed law would only push the smoking back into the bathrooms and dark hallways. This issue is particularly sticky because it involves teachers, and thus voters, as well.

For now, smoking is still allowed, to a degree, at Wachusett. One must question whether this initiated law would really change anything for the better.

Is this the end of the smoking area?

Will eligibility slow down the fun?

New academic policies at W.R.H.S. are formed in a very democratic manner. This is done through the work of the Academic Advisory Board. The A.A.B. is a panel of both students and teachers who debate and vote upon academic issues. The panel works to protect the rights and interests of the students. The A.A.B. must make policy decisions which will affect not only the classes presently here, but also those to come. Exemptions and extracurricular activity eligibility are two hot issues which the board is presently working on.

POSSIBLE POLICIES

The issue of exemptions is one juniors and particularly seniors are very interested in. The class of 1988 will not be having any exemptions. This, however, is subject to change. There is still a possibility that seniors might have exemptions for finals, as did the class of 1987.

The A.A.B. is presently working on a plan for extracurricular activity eligibility. There is a rule now which prevents any student who has two marks below a "C" from participating on school athletic teams. The board is thinking of extending this rule over all school sponsored activities like clubs. There is a question over whether there should be a limit to the number of hours a student may put into an activity or club if his grades are suffering. This brings up the problem of enforcement. How could the administration control this? The eligibility question will not affect the class of '88, but underclassmen should be aware.

THE STUDENTS' PLEA

You finally make it to Friday. The teachers in all of your classes load homework on you and to top it off, your English teacher "reminds" you about the ten page typed paper on Chaucer that she assigned a month ago. "Chaucer" you think, "O.K. Stay calm. That's the English guy that wrote 'The Canterburry Tales.'"
You realize though that this is a hopeless cause and there is no way you can finish this paper over the weekend. Besides, your family is going on a trip to the most remote part of Maine, and everyone knows that Maine doesn't have libraries.
Sound familiar? Some kids become expert brown-nosers at this point . . .

This document is a plea to you to put off our paper just a day or two.
You who are so wise and all knowing will doubtlessly acknowledge that we will be going from place to place all weekend, and hence-won't have time for such assignments.

A teacher possessing such worldly understanding we are sure would not have us handing in work that does not quite satisfy you, all because of a weekend with too much to do.

We really don't think this is an unreasonable request, for if you grant us this wish, you'll be at your best.
You'll be showing the world your noble generosity,
(and avoiding the wrath of our ferocity!)

Please ponder this thought for a moment or two and give us your answer as soon as you're through.
We thank you for reading this humble plea-
Sincerely Yours, student "Y" and student "Z."

When asked what the funniest thing they've ever seen or heard, these teachers had some interesting responses:

"The day Mr. Cornacchioli said that he could run the Charlie 10 mile race in less than 80 minutes. Mr. Lanciani bet $300 that he wouldn't."

-Mr. Rasku

"When my husband dresses up as a cheerleader for Halloween. He was the ugliest woman I ever saw."

Dear Members of the Class of 1988:

It is truly a pleasure for me to be a part of your yearbook and to have a chance to address you now and, hopefully, a number of times in the future. I say that because this book is a chronicle of today and yet it will become a source of memories and reflection as you take it down from the shelf from time to time as the years go by. For now—in this time of great change in your life—I hope that this book will be the capstone of the wall that is your life as you prepare to graduate from high school. In the years ahead, I hope that it becomes for you a place of happy memories, of faces from your youth, of good times and of learning and preparing for whatever you become. The high school years are important ones and ones that we as a faculty have had the pleasure of sharing with you. As you leave to take your place in the world along side of us, we wish you the very best and hope that our efforts have contributed in some measure to your success now and in the future.

As you look back on this book from the vantage point of years from now, I hope that it will remind you of this time in your life. It has, I am sure, been a vulnerable time for many of you, and for all of you, a time of growth and changing challenges. I hope that what you received here will be permanent and will provide some of the foundation you need to be successful in whatever endeavor is your final place in this world. Think kindly of us from that future; I know that, as with all classes who graduate, we will have left a little of us with you and the memory of the Class of '88 and the individuals we have come to know among you will form the fabric of our memory just as these years will do the same for you.

Finally, in an age that seems to too often ignore the need to thank others for their part in our success, may you work to improve the lot of others and help to change this direction. The joy of repaying a favor, of saying "thank you" to a benefactor, of reminding a parent or loved one of how important they have been to you, is more profound than almost anything you will experience in life. So, for now, thanks to you for the memories of these past four years and our best to you in whatever you dream of doing and becoming. God Bless!

Keep in touch . . .

CLASS OF 1989

Initiation Fee:

Being a freshman this year wasn't as bad as it sounds. Having so many people in the freshman class with so much school spirit, is great. We won the homecoming parade with our "It's not Easy Being Green" bus. Even though the freshman football team did not do so good, the j.v. soccer and fieldhockey team had a great season! That was just the beginning of the year. With all the spirit we have now, we surely bave the best class that ever passed through WRHS! I do not know many seniors, but when I do see them they look like they are having a good time; so leaving all their friends will be hard. They do have though, so I wish them all of my best and all of the other freshmen's good luck and sentiments.

Where can you find a freshman?

Students find a new hangout

Once one has been here awhile, one learns the ropes rather quickly. To survive with some mobility, an arsenal of excuses need to be developed for future use. Some of the more amusing are:

I forgot again . . . I was late this morning . . . I don't have the time between classes . . . I was double locked and have to find a custodian . . . I'll miss my bus if . . . I left a bomb in there and it's set to go off . . . Someone borrowed my book and left it . . . etc . . . etc . . .

WHAT'S YOURS

THere are many uses for a school locker. One sure thing is that most of us will discover several in our times ahead. Looking at the photos on this page, please match the following with a photo:

* A place to meet girls, or guys, with a little sweet incentive
* Where you can get the lowdown on last weekend, or the scoop on next . . .
* An actual place to study, if you believe . . .
* A storage shed which could include about anything

WHO ARE THE MACHINE MEN?

A vital part of the yearbook is fundraising, and a large chunk of it comes from the soda machines. Loading them is a large and unrecognized responsibility, and it was done on the behalf of teacher Greg Smith and his crew—Gerry Powers, Randy Mercier, and Dave Rudner.

As sophomores, this being our second year at WRHS, we are more at ease and have a better understanding of the school and how it works.

Our class has matured since our first year at WRHS, and has gained its own identity. We are a group of individuals each with our own ideas and ways. Despite these differences we all respect each other and try to understand each others ways.

Hopefully we will continue to contribute all we can to Wachusett and take it all that it has to offer.

The alarm emits its annoying, constant monotone at 6:01. I roll over, moaning in disbelief, and press the snooze button for the sixth time. Yes, it's Monday morning again. Where did the weekend go? I finally manage to stumble out of bed at 6:30 and scuffle into the shower before my hot-head sister kicks me out. Sprinting to the bus stop, I inhale a muffin while slipping on my earrings and tucking in my shirt.

I arrive to school still half awake and meet up with my friends at our lockers. We briefly discuss our weekend adventures and then concentrate on cramming for the first period test we just couldn't find the time to study for on a Sunday night. What? And miss Michael J. Fox?

Finally . . . . . Lunch! I scan the cafeteria for a seat for me and my friends, particularly near or against the wall as to not call too much attention to our odd Sophomore bodies, so we think, and after having no trouble doing so, we attempt eating the "gourmet" school food-some of us brown bag it. My table is filled with the weekend gossip. Did you hear about him? Oh my God, really? I heard what you did Friday night! Isn't he a dream? These are just a few things to be said during our lunch hour. Feeling a little queezy from my so-called lunch, I get out my homework which, by the way, is due next period, when the bell rings. Great, just great.

The rest of the day is just as routine and unexciting, as I get slammed around and stepped on in the hallways, drop my books accidentally on the stairs, and find out that yes, in fact, Julie is going out with an upperclassmen. Gag me.

4, 3, 2, 1, B-R-I-N-G! Last period bell has finally sounded. We push and trip out of the classroom doors, practically leaving skid marks on our ways to our lockers, and open them cautiously as to not have everything tumble out upon us. Grabbing the few needed books for homework, saving the rest for study period the next morning, we all go our separate ways-practice, dancing, games, lessons, or just home to our favorite soaps and snacks. The afternoon drags by, and after attempting the homework, the phone is lifted from the receiver, not to be hung up for a couple of gossipy, gabby hours. Then, after some honest effort on my studies, I hit the sack, "looking forward" to the next exciting day in the life of a Wachusett Sophomore, the social butterflies of the school. Can't wait.

So Close, You Can Almost...

The class of 1989 is, in my opinion the "Greatest Variety" of any class ever to walk through the doors of WRHS. Our Junior year is stressful, yet fun. So close to graduation, we are. We have one more year to bring the Wachusett Regional High School of America to its' knees. And when we stand up and show our faces to the people of the world, one thought will undoubtedly keep flashing through our minds. How has our society come to this?

Then one must contemplate just what can we accomplish in the years to come. The mental and physical capability of this class are overwhelming. We very well could be in charge of the world.

I can tell you that the world is going to be a far better place! We are a class of molders, movers, and leaders!!!!!!!!

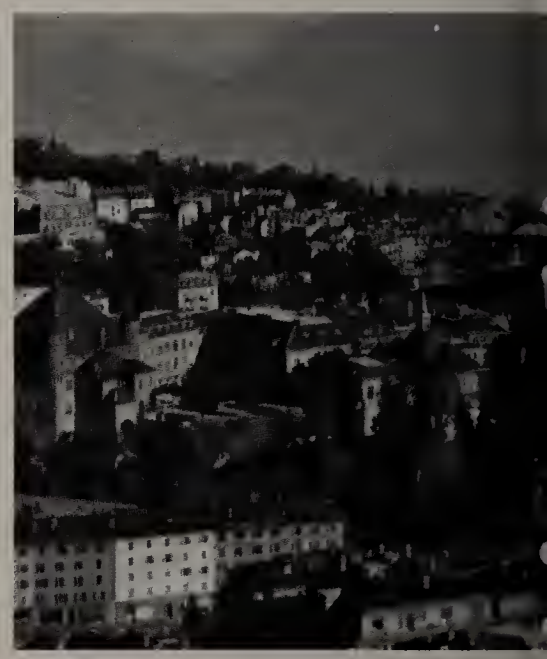
FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS



Wachusett has had soo much fun learning and participating with peers from other cultures in the National Exchange Program. We have hosted many students from all over the world, including Sweden, France, and Belgium among many other countries. It is a great opportunity and honor for these students to partake in this program, and the experiences they encounter are always exciting and educational ones. The student council is hoping to display the various foreign flags our school has hosted in recognition of our new friends that we have met, grown with, and enjoyed their companionship. It is an enriching experience for both the foreign exchange students as well as for the students at Wachusett who are able to get to know the newcomers and their particular cultures. The program is one of the most influential and exciting that Wachusett has to offer, and will for many years to come. Wachusett is always eager to accept new members into its family.

Not a week goes by at Wachusett when there isn't something being planned or going on. From day one to graduation there are activities for everyone-whether it be taking a trip to Acadia or getting together with some friends at a baseball game. No matter what your interest there is something going on that you can participate in. There is never "nothing to do on a Friday night." Active-that's the one word that can describe the Wachusett Family . . .

YOU COULDN'T HAVE PICKED A NICER DAY!

Friday night we kept warm by a blazing bonfire.

Everyone could feel the excitement in the autumn air, as the soccer team raced up and down the field against rival Marlboro.

Saturday morning was spent at a sports event or adding a new twist to tradition . . . buses were decorated instead of floats. It really was a success and each class showed incredible spirit. The W.R.H.S. spirit continued to flow at the afternoon football game as well.

Dressed in their best, students, faculty and graduates spent Saturday night at the traditional dance sponsored by the Student Council.

The excitement of the weekend is all just a memory now, but one that will last. Why? Because this was HOMECOMING 1988!

Once again, dinner guests at St. Mary's Parish Center in Jefferson were treated to some of the traditions of the 16th and 17th century Renaissance period by Wachusett's own royal family, the Wachusett Singers, and Wind Ensemble.

For two sold-out nights in January, Wachusett students, in medieval garb from minstrels to kings and queens danced and sang songs such as, "Who Now Doth Love Sincerely", and "Banquet Feud" at the annual Madrigal Dinner.

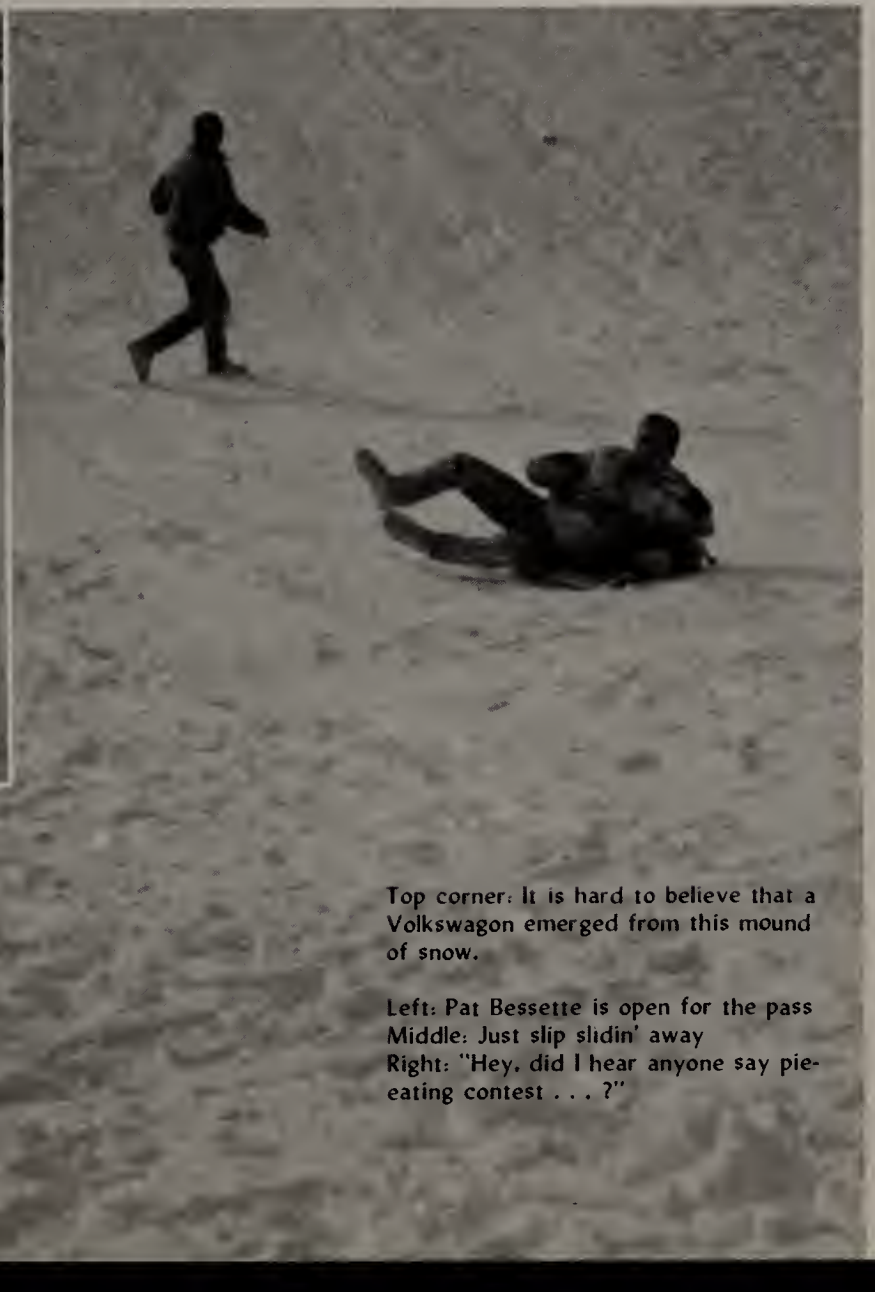
RNIVAL . . .

The Wachusett Student Council brought fun and excitement to all this winter by sponsoring the Winter Carnival. The first of its kind at Wachusett, the week was composed of a series of activities such as pie-eating, tricycle races, snow sculpting, basketball, volleyball, cross-country and downhill skiing, haiku writing, collecting cans for the Friendly House, and much, much more. Individuals competed, as well as groups, to earn points for their classes. The points were tallied over the week and a winner was declared at the end.

Because of the success and support of the 1988 Winter Carnival, it is hoped that future classes may take part in this event also.



Top corner: It is hard to believe that a Volkswagon emerged from this mound of snow.

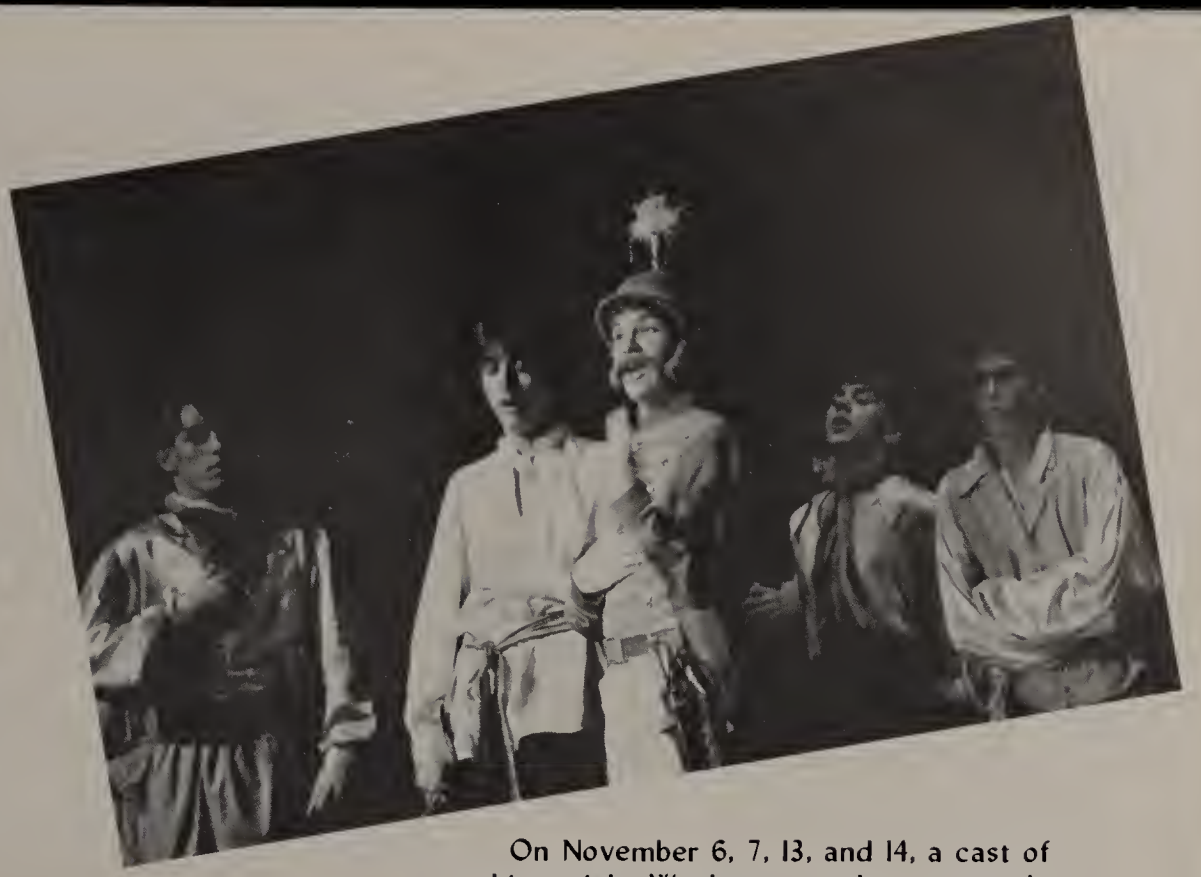
The Pirates of Penzance



On November 6, 7, 13, and 14, a cast of thirty-eight Wachusett students treated everyone to a brilliant rendition of Gilbert & Sullivan's "THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE". In some of the lead roles were John Deal as Major General Stanley, Chris Brown as the Pirate King, Kerry Deal as Mabel, and sharing the part of Ruth were Laura Dubrule and Kim Gilbeault. The entire cast once again made Wachusett proud with the talent and effort put into such great performacnes.

. . . IN GROUPS SOMEWHERE . . .

ALONE, SOMEWHERE . . .

Where are you goin'.....

and..

....where have you been?

. . . HERE OR THERE . . .

. . . OR MAYBE EVEN CLASS

Modus Operandi, or what's your MO? The Police, Firemen, members of the service, etc. have used this term for years referring to one's location at the given time. Here at Wachusett in any given time, we all have our "mo's". It might not be where we prefer to be at the moment, but that's life. We do have "ways" though of moving in directions toward what we prefer, whether it be to the pit stop, lunch, our designated hiding places, or quietly FADING OUT. (left- Wendy Popple)

Distant Friends

Sometimes I get lonely and thinking of you helps;
reminding me that there is a person...
I cherish so very much,
always close in spirit
even when you're so far away...
But sometimes it hurts,
even more
to think of you.-
your laugh, your touch
and to remember just...
How much I miss
your gentle face
your tender ways
and your presence -
In my life...

Wachusett boys and girls tug their way to victory!

You can sink our canoe, but not our spirits!

Those biceps, triceps . . . oil em' up.

The true meaning of spectator sports.

This pirate crew proved to be victoriuos, even though their canoe sank in the resort lake.

Wendy, Julie, and Ann - happy to be homeward bound!!

HOT HOT HOT

May 27th, 1988. The best time of the year. It's the senior class trip. Over 300 of us seniors saddled up anxiously with headphones, beach towels, and other fun-in-the-sun paraphernalia for a long and funfilled day at the Frank Davis Resort in Moodis, CT. And a funfilled day it was at that. Tennis, volleyball, canoe races, softball, and the list goes on and on. Wachusett demonstrated their athletic abilities, as always we were victorious. Winning the tug-a-war, canoe races, and volleyball games were among just a few of the events we won. At the close of a long day, we gathered our things, piled our exhausted bodies into the fleet of waiting buses. Some of us ready to party, while others were ready for one thing and one thing only-sleep! Overall, the day was nothing but a huge success and a day to remember forever. Wa-hoo!!

"Wonderful Tonight"

"Hey big fellas check this out!"

A romantic kiss between Kris and Jen during a romantic evening.

The Senior Prom ~ "Memories To Hold On To"

Kickin' up our heels!

High heels, lipstick, a rainbow of boutonnieres, gowns, and corsage colors. We'd been through this before, but this time we were the head honchos. If we seemed to have held back last year, we definitely broke out of that shell, and nothing was holding us back from kicking up our heels (and "souls") and taking over the dance floor. John Naroian and Suzanne Lampson kicked off the grooving before dinner was even served, and that was the end of sitting down to a quiet or organized meal together. Tony Bosse demonstrated his vocal ability as he joined the band, Down East, in singing a song or two. Rumor has it, also, that a few curious, eaves' dropping parents dressed as Minnie and Mickey mouse and pranced around the Sheraton that night- who knows why? Overall, it was a huge success, as shown by the number of couples who put off their post-prom partying and celebrating long enough to hear the theme, "Wonderful Tonight", which was a perfect description of the night as a whole. Cameras flashed constantly, capturing memories of school friends and buddies that will be missed but never forgotten, and all left with the memory of the great times and special friends and dates that made the night such a great success. You've got class, '88!

Above: Tony Bosse tries his hand at lead vocals with the band "Down East".
Bottom: Coleen Caputo snuggles up to date Kevin Babineau.

"Hey good lookin' wanna dance??"

John and Jen hamming it up for the camera.

"What the heck are we looking at?!?"

A whisper of congratulations and a helping hand for senior Vin Pusateri.

GRADUATION DAY

- JUNE 4, 1988

Right: Class valedictorian, Heather Thompson receives her diploma from the master of ceremonies Principal Hal Lane.
Left: Exchange students from around the world receive WRHS diplomas and a warm bon voyage.

Greetings from Class President Tobin Curtis started off the celebration. Sharon Fox started the ceremonies speech presentations with a address on the "me" generation of the past intitled "A Different World". Next was an address called "Worms, Ants, And Bees" by Dan Youd looking at the troubles with the world today. Edward Staples gave a wonderful light speech on the humor behind high school. An honor address was given my Heather Thompson "Ad Astra Per Aspera" which closed the days speeches with hopes and dreams.

Here We Come...

Top right: Can you tell Robin and Kelli are "a little" happy to be graduating??
Top left: "This is cool, but do you think I can wear my shades all day?"
Bottom right: "Is it too late to turn around?"
Bottom left: "Yea, but what if I fall on the STAGE?!?"

Watch Out World!!

Top: A hearty applause for the WRHS senior chorus.
Right: "I wonder if they will get my name right?"
Middle: All 426 of us - decked out in green and white.
Bottom right: "Forget the speech, man, check her out!!!"

We Did It!

A Perfect Ending...

Above: WRHS Band conducted by Miriam Jensen
Middle: Class of 88 advisors and invited faculty.
Bottom: Honored by the Class of 88; Scott Ljungberg, Fred Warren, and (not pictured) Barbara Rowell.

"We made it"-a phrase that could be heard throughout the day of June 4th, 1988; a day that symbolized the end of four years shared by all. Over 420 seniors said their good-byes to classmates, faculty, and Wachusett, their home for the last 4 wonderful years. Though the class of 1988 has ended their stay at WRHS, they can now look ahead with confidence and individuality, ready to make their mark on the world. Both tears and smiles covered the faces of all on this special day, in realizing that school mates whom have grown so close, and in rejoicing their achievements and locking on to what lies ahead of them in the future. Something to remember-goodbye doesn't mean forever, and one thing is for sure; the spirit, togetherness, and pride of the class of 1988 is something that exceeds the rest and will live on forever in the minds, hearts, and memories of everyone in it. Once again, we made it!! God bless and good luck to all!!

The tassels are finally on the left-it's almost over.

The end of the alphabet draws near.

Left: The gown is off and it's time to go home!!

PIED PIPERS OF WACHUSETT

From the first day of school when we were excited, overwhelmed, and frightened Freshmen until our graduation day when their advice and help could no longer shelter us, our class advisors have offered and sacrificed much of their free time so that they could dedicate it to making our journey through high school a little easier. Giving us a push to help us begin to make our mark on Wachusett to the organizing of our junior and senior proms, the class advisors have been there for us. Understanding that the transition coming from five small towns to attend Wachusett would be difficult, they were prepared to walk with us, step by step to help us through the trials and tribulations.

As Editor of the Yearbook, I personally want to thank all the class advisors for their guidance and support, patience and cooperation, and their overall friendship as we, the class of 1988 courageously and successfully have made our way through the struggles and joys of high school.

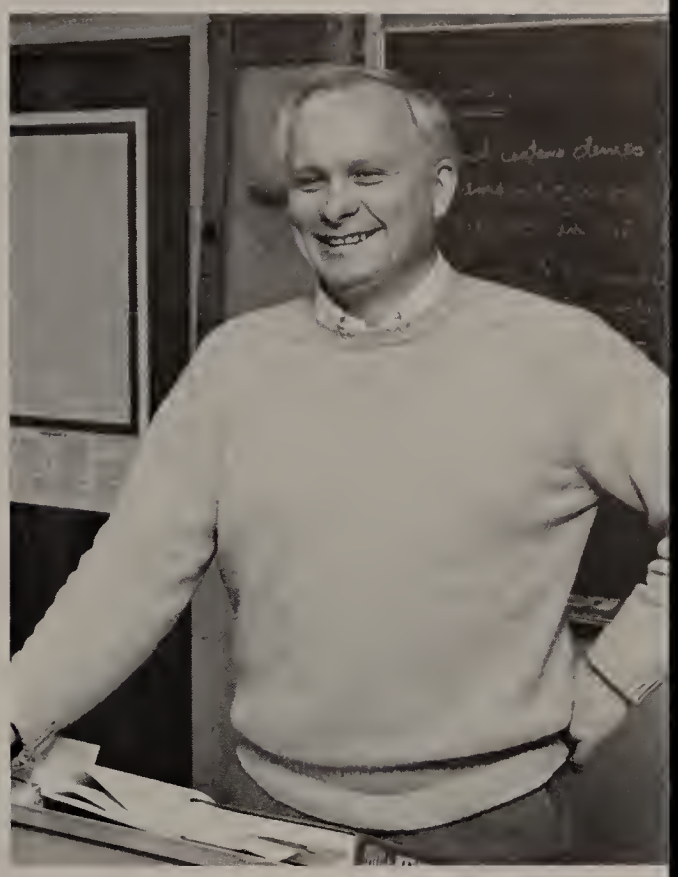
Thanks for everything:
Ms. Rubenstein
Ms. Fetterman
Mr. Knight
Mr. Tarkiainen
Mr. Mitchell

Although Mrs. Koki has not been with us our four years, the time she has been with us has been time well spent. She has joined the ranks of the few and the brave: The Class Advisors. Thank you.

Ms. Rubenstein

Mr. Mitchell

Mr. Tarkiainen



Ms. Fetterman

Mr. Knight

OH, THESE ARE THE TIMES THAT TRY MEN"S SOLES!!!!!!!!!

Journalism-a profession understaffed, overworked, and underpaid !!! Nevermind the fact that the seniors did it, WE DID IT, the Yearbook staff! We overcame obstacles, mental blocks, communication gaps, troubles over international waters, etc. We saw no daylight, in fact, we were so far down under that we were lucky we could come up for air! Oh, the endless hours dedicated to completing this book. We had so many great ideas and energy where did it all go?! The Yearbook staff vocabulary consisted of: Tomorrow, Oh yeah, I forgot, I'll try, and I'm sorry, Amy- I promise. Time? We had no sense of time nor day. We could'nt even agree on covers. (I still think mine was the better of the two!) But, hey, our dance was a success-Thank God for New England weather!! (It rained and people had no where else to go!)We adopted a task no one else dared to take. (Now we know why!) We fit the pieces of the puzzle together. We were able to gather over 1200 students and make some sense and unity of them all. We sifted and sorted, twisted and turned, cropped and cried, laughed and sighed!! We've done our best capturing those special moments and we did represent everyone. We tried to show that Wachusett is a family and within that family are individuals. Individuals, pieces of the puzzle, which we attempted to fit together. You may not have found a picture of yourself but this book was done with everyone in mind. No one, in our minds was left out. It was quite a challenge but it was accomplished. Considering our time differences, we've accomplished much more . . . we finished!! I selected a little saying which hung in the Yearbook office the entire year to sum up the Yearbook staff:

> We the willing, led by the unknowing are doing the impossible for the ungrateful. We have done so much for so long, with so little, we are now qualified to do anything with nothing.

WE DID IT!!!!!!!!
Love ya,
Your Editor

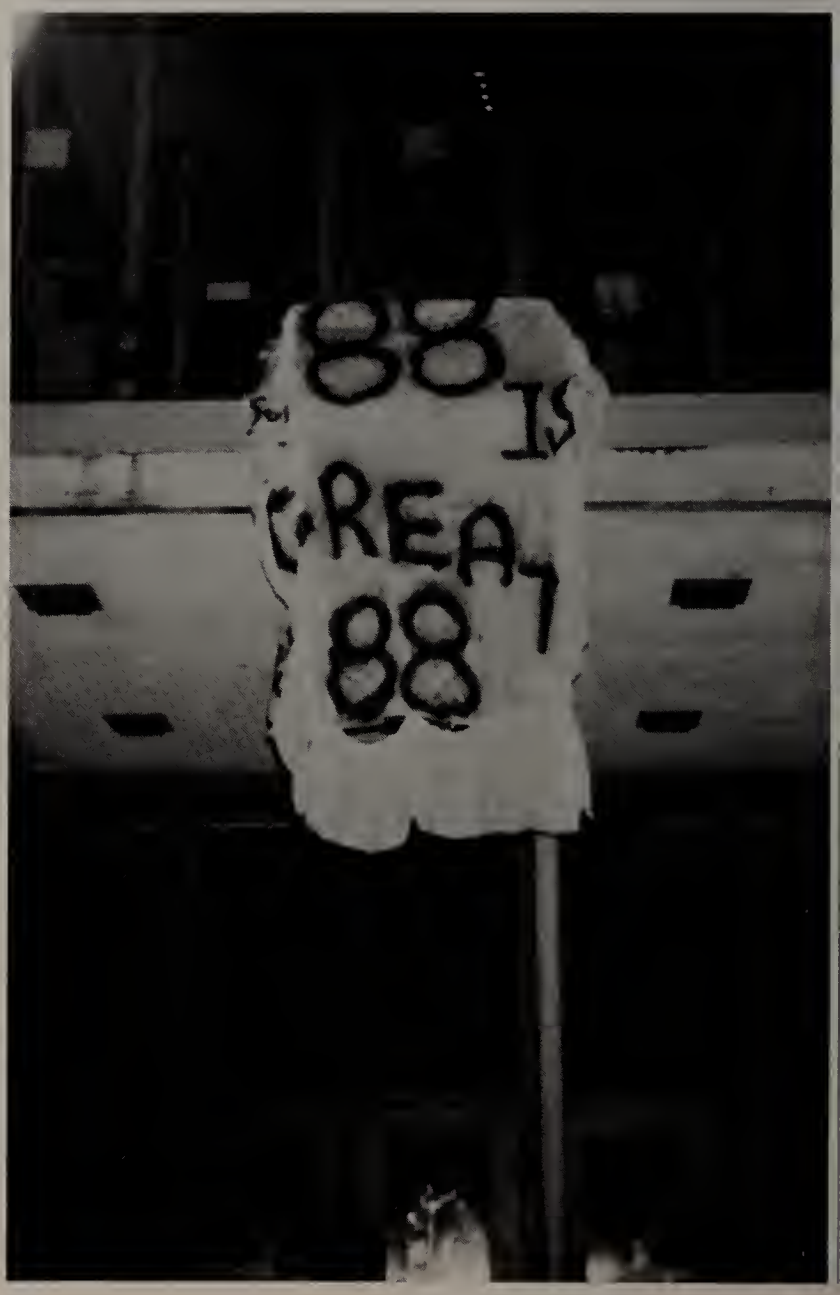
'88



Our last steps as students are complete and are now considered memories, and our steps into the future are being taken, but without that certainty and confidence we had in our last couple years of high school. After all, we were experienced students, the school was ours, the world was ours. Today, that unsuredness we had possessed as infants going from all fours onto two is back and will stay awhile.

How will we get that confidence back? Many different ways, but in essence, just like we did as freshmen. In the process, we will take some chances, or risks, and we may try on many different shoes. We may fall to our sides a few times, but we've learned well, and can get up on our two's and make another step forward. It's an adventure, and despite the hardships, it continues and we wouldn't trade them for anything. Each step is more than worth it!
